As we rode into Lionhead we saw many slides that either ran naturally or from cornice falls. Most of the slides happened Fri or Sat. Winds are blowing strong at all aspects and elevations. Slopes are being loaded further and we triggered a small slide (video) from 50 feet away (aka remotely triggered). This is a serious sign of instability and we were careful to not get on or underneath avalanche terrain.

Advisory Region
Lionhead Range
Longitude
-111.32W
Latitude
44.71N

Avalanche Details: Avalanches and remote trigger, Lionhead
Forecast link: GNFAC Avalanche Forecast for Wed Feb 1, 2023GNFAC Avalanche Forecast for Thu Feb 2, 2023
Lionhead Range, 2023-01-31